

WARNING!!

NATURE'S LUMBERJACKS HARD AT WORK!

It takes me only a few hours to chop one of these trees down. While I'm not intimidated by size, I prefer the young cottonwood and alders with tender shoots. I then use the branches in my dam building to make ponds for my lodge. We are second to humans that have the ability to change the landscape.

